Remarkable Discoveries. An account of the scientific exploration of the ruins of Niffer, near ancient Babylon, which is being made by American scientists under the auspices of the Babylonian Exploration Fund, which was subscribed by Philadelphians in 1888, has been furnished the State Department by Minister Terreil. The work of excavating began in 1887, and has been continued by Dr. Peters and Dr. Hillpricht, only the former being now engaged. From 150 to 250 Arabs are constantly employed. In the number of tablets, brick inscribed vases and in the value of cuneiform texts found, the American enterprise is said to rival the explorations of Layard at Nineveh. Dr. Hilpricht, the distinguished Assyrian scholar of the University of Pennsylvania, cemains at the museum at the request of the Turkish government to translate inscriptions and arrange the tablets and other relics dating back to 4000 B. C.

4000 B. C.

Many tons of tablets, sarcophagi and the like have already arrived at the museum at Constantinople, and the Sultan, in recognition of the services of the American professors, has promised that the University of Pennsylvania shall receive one of all duplicate antiques

Minister Terrell says that this enter-prise has revealed an antiquity of the human race nearly ten centuries older than science had knowlege of before. The religion, government, habits of life, and, to a great extent, the customs of men who lived 4,000 B. C. are revealed by the inscriptions which are now being translated and arranged by Professor Hilpricht. Thus far 20,000 inscribed tablets of clay and stone have been discovered, bearing inscriptions which include promises to pay debts; deeds, contracts and records of impor-tant public and private events. One tablet seen by Minister Terrell was a promise to pay borrowed money, with interest, in sheckles in the reign of Cambyses. About 150 Hebrew, Mandic, Arabic and Syrian inscribed bowls dic, Arabic and Syrian inscribed both have been dug up. These are more than all the museums of the gion between the Tigris and Euphrates. About 1,000 vases of alabaster, of marble and other stone, are among the dis coveries, with votive offerings of lapisazuli, magnesite and agate, and house hold ornaments of iron, bronze and clay. The Temple of Bel (the god of the people) is being dug around and It is estimated that sixty volumes will be required to contain all the translations of the tablets. The first volume edited by Professor Hilpricht has recently appeared, and has received general praise from eminent European scholars. American profes-sors now in Roberts College assert that the scientific world now owes its oldest Semetic texts to this expedition; that they found over sixty feet below the surface of the earth evidences that Niffer was one thousand years older than scientists had believed; also, that of the 125 Babylonian kings whose names and eras are known, eighty were found de cribed on tablets excavated by this American enterprise.
